Anderson-Moore Construction Corporation's specialized healthcare construction team provides the most comprehensive, value-based services for your most complex projects. For over 20 years and continuing, AMC proven medical skill-set brings clients back, again and again. They know our construction delivery is quality driven and expeditious.

Our healthcare Project Managers are exemplary in their schedule management and understand the technical aspects of medical and diagnostic-type projects. They work with industry consultants during the preconstruction and construction phases to ensure the specifications of your project. AMC also offers feasibility-study services to assist you in determining site constructability and intelligent planning. Our preconstruction space planning, conceptual estimating and value engineering will lead to more accurate construction documents with minimal change orders, resulting in very cost-effective construction.

AMC's ongoing relationships with regulatory authorities pertinent to the diagnostic and healthcare industries keep us current to their requirements and your needs. We attend related seminars and conventions enabling our staff to stay abreast of ever-changing codes and technological advancements. Our team-approach with architects, engineers, equipment suppliers, and industry officials is recognized and appreciated within the industry. It facilitates a smooth transition from planning, to construction drawings, to the actual construction of your project.

Anderson-Moore Construction Corporation is committed to delivering the unique construction requirements within the healthcare industry. We know your expectations are high and we constantly work toward meeting those expectations so you will come back to AMC, again and again.
