Construction leadership requires the application of intricate and ever-changing technology and the ability to analyze and expedite the physical process. Combining those construction applications, Michael J. Anderson, Jeffery L. Moore, and Harry R. Darling bring two decades of practical knowledge and real-world experience to their successful relationship – translating that into a successful company: Anderson-Moore Construction Corporation, Inc.

Mike Anderson's education and career-history is: general contracting. He formed M.J. Anderson Construction Corp. in 1979 and is still providing construction services today, to his very first client from 1979. Mike's knowledge and management prowess have enabled him to develop and deliver a systematic and repeatable method of initiating, tracking, and completing projects – successfully. He advocates a partnering relationship and has positioned a portfolio of diverse projects ranging from 5,000 square feet to over 270,000 square feet, nationwide.

projects throughout the Southeast.

Jeff Moore is an operations specialist in the technical aspects of preconstruction design, construction, and development protocol. Jeff's background includes oversight of project management teams and field personnel, in addition to estimating and construction management divisions. He has amassed a portfolio of signature, award-winning

Harry Darling rounds-out this partnership adding his diversified corporate experience providing for the successful business operations of AMC. Harry brings along with his accounting and political science degrees, previous involvement with construction and development projects worth over $2.5 billion. He is expert at project analysis and determining project feasibility.

The success of AMC is largely due to an integrity-driven philosophy and the early determination to have only the best, like-minded people join the AMCteam. Together, Mike, Jeff, and Harry embody one directive: "Establish and understand the needs and concerns of our clients and focus all available resources towards meeting those needs."

As a result of this intention, a great deal of work performed by AMC is established with repeat clients who have worked with Mike, Jeff, and Harry on projects in the past. They would indisputably agree that successful leadership drives successful companies; Anderson-Moore Construction Corporation, under the leadership of Mike Anderson, Jeff Moore, and Harry Darling, is a reflection of that concept.
